And wasting their time on barren land. So him and Tom they hitched up their mules, Protesting that folks were mighty big fools That 'nd stay in Georgia their life time out, Jest scratching a living when all of them

Was living not far from the edge of town, And he hantered Brown to buy his place, And said that seeing as money was skace, And seeing as heriffs were hard to face. Two dollars an acre would get the land.

They closed at a dollar and fifty cents.
And Jones he bought him a wagon and tents,
And loaded his corn, and a woman and truck,
And moved to Texas, which it took
His entire pile, with the best of luck,
To get there and get him a little land. But Brown moved out on the old Jones farm. his fair partner as firmly as an iron And he rolled up his breeches and bared his hand classes a cotton hale and under And he picked all the rocks from off'n the ground,
And he rooted it up and plowed it down,
And sowed his corn and wheat in the land.

And sowed his corn and wheat in the land.

Five years glid by, and Brown one day,
(Who'd got so fat hat he wouldn't weigh)
Was a sitting down, sorter lazily,
To the pleasantest dumeryou ever see,
When one of the children jumped on his knee
And says, 'yon's Jones, which you bought his land.'
And there was Jones, standing out at the fence,
And he hadn't no wagons, nor mules, nor tents;
For he had left Texas a foot and come
To Georgia, to see if he could't get some Employment, and he was tooking as humble.
